Your Honor:

I would first like to express my deepest apology for my actions and to the FBI Agent that was injured due to my actions. I am sincerely remorseful for my previous conduct. I would like to deeply apologize to the AUSA and all parties involved whom had to prosecute and investigate this case as a result of my stupidity. And I would like to also apologize to my family, whom have suffered tremendously throughout this case and my current incarceration.

Your Honor, I had years to think about my actions. And I came to the conclusion that I was not at the right state of mind. I assumed I was supporting a just cause, but in reality I had been manipulated by those I thought was my friends. I had been misled and thought that I was being lead by the truth, but it was all false, your honor. I still cannot imagine me doing what I did on that terrible day. It was repulsive and it was absolutely not appropriate under my religion. I still fight myself to this very day because of my actions, not knowing that I could have been shot and killed or killed someone, based upon my actions & false belief. I had time to reflect [deeply] these past six-years about my actions and how it has landed me here. I had grown and matured in these past six years. The 21 year old I was, back then, is not the 27 year old man I am today. My views on practically everything has changed because I no longer indulge with people who share those horrible beliefs.

This letter--to you--is not to fabricate my worth simply to get a lenient sentence, it is a commitment that I will stand by for the rest of my life. I have been making the best with what is available to me in prison. Since I been in Federal Prison I had not been in any trouble, never received a single infraction or write-up. I had been programming and gaining certificates, and awaiting to attend College to get my Degree. Your honor, I know right- from-wrong now, and will prove to you and my family members that an opportunity to be around positive people will always lead top becoming a better person and to do the right thing in life. I apologized to the court before and I understand that words are meaningless unless they are accompanied by real actions. So, I have been attempting to show myself and family that I am better and will do better.

Your honor when you sentence me to 204 months you had given me a an opportunity to get it right. And you given me another chance at life. I sincerely believe that I have my life in order and I am ready to show the world that I am better than my worse mistake in life. Please your honor, permit me this opportunity to get it right. You did not make the erroneous decision at the first sentencing. I am asking that your initial sentence remain the same at 'resentencing'.

I am sure that the AUSA' may not be pleased with my statements before you but I want them to know that I am sincerely remorseful for my actions and I would appreciate it if they would give me the opportunity to show them that I am better than what I did on June 17, 2015. I cannot take this back, but I surely can make a positive difference that would reflect this a better and productive man. I thank you and I am appreciative for your honor [and all parties involved] who may give me the opportunity to get my life in prospective, THANK YOU.
